WATER USERS TO BUILD BIG DAM

Government Funds Not to be Sought for Construction of Horseshoe Bend Irrigation System on Verde River.

Phoenix, Ariz., March 7.—Government funds will not be asked for to construct the Horseshoe bend storage dam on the Verde river. If the dam is built and the pumps installed it will be with money raised by special assessment levied on the members of the Water Users' Association.

The governors of the association met in special session and decided to submit the proposition for the construction of the new dam, also the pumping plant, to the members at the annual election, to be held in April. It is estimated that the dam will cost $1,000,000. No estimate of the cost of the pumps has been made.

The board of survey appointed to fix the limits of the Salt river project decided that 175,000 acres can be irrigated from the Roosevelt reservoir, and from the normal flow of the Salt and Verde rivers. If 21 pumps are installed the acreage can be increased to 250,000 acres, and the Horseshoe dam will raise the total to 311,600 acres. Several electric power plants have been installed with money raised through assessments voluntarily imposed by the water users upon themselves.
